

IRRIGATION CONVENTION.

Hon. R. K. Colcord, DEAR SIR:—The undersigned citizens of the State of Nevada respectfully request you to call an Irrigation Convention, pursuant to the suggestion of the Congress recently held at Salt Lake, Utah, said Convention to be composed of citizens of the State who are interested in irrigation, water storage and kindred subjects, to be held at a time and place best calculated to forward the interests of our State.

[Signed by 100 leading citizens.]

THE GOVERNOR'S RESPONSE.

CARSON, Nevada, Sept. 29. WHEREAS, The National Executive Committee appointed by the Irrigation Congress, assembled at Salt Lake City, Utah, on the 17th of September, 1891, has requested the Governor of Nevada to call a State Irrigation Convention at an early day, with a view to obtaining, first, an endorsement of the policy adopted by such Congress, and, second, to organize every county of Nevada, so that petitions in support of the measure when introduced in Congress, may be circulated and the largest possible number of signers be obtained.

AND WHEREAS, A petition signed by numerous citizens of this State, interested in irrigation and reclamation of arid lands, has also been addressed to me, requesting the call of a Convention for the purpose of considering the questions of storage irrigation and reclamation of arid lands.

AND WHEREAS, This is a matter of supreme importance to the people of this State, upon which largely depends its population and prosperity.

Now, THEREFORE, I do call a Convention at the City of Carson, Nevada, on Friday, the 9th day of October, 1891, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose; 1st, Of considering the best measures to enforce the policy adopted by the Salt Lake Convention with reference to the action of the Federal Congress, and, 2nd, For the purpose of considering the capabilities of the various portions of the State of Nevada, with reference to water storage, irrigation and reclamation of lands.

3d, For the purpose of selecting delegates to the Mississippi Congress to be held at Omaha, October 15th, 1891.

The convention will be a mass convention, composed of all those interested in the subject of water storage, irrigation or reclamation of arid lands, and a general call is hereby issued to all so interested, to attend.

The delegates from the various counties will organize after their arrival at Carson.

Particular request is made that competent men from each county and section of the State should present to the convention written articles descriptive of its resources, its facilities for water storage, its system of water rights, the prevailing system of reclamation and the extent to which such reclamation can be increased. It is the design to publish such communications later on in the report of the proceedings of the convention.

The subject of the District Irrigation law passed by the last Legislature will also be considered and fully discussed, and measures suggested for its amendment and improvement. It is to be hoped that the various counties will vie with each other, both in the size and intelligence of their delegations and in their careful preparation of information relating to their resources, and I trust that this Convention will, by the wisdom of its action, and in this great work of erecting a sufficient machinery by which the unanimous voice of seventeen States and Territories may be brought to bear upon National legislation.

R. K. COLCORD, Governor.

There seems to be a general desire on the part of the people to go to Carson some day during the week. As a courtesy we ought to tender them a visit which in numbers would be an earnest indication of our good will and kindly feeling for their industry and enterprise. They will give us a jolly reception.—Journal.

Turn Out.

Notwithstanding Carson's intended attempt to have the State Fair held in that city after next year, Reno should turn out en masse and give the biggest day of the week on Wednesday or Friday. It don't pay a community to be narrow minded and jealously selfish of another's success. Carson will never get the State Fair, and when the Legislature convenes she will find out that she is not in it.—Gazette.

The Circus.

McMahon's circus drew a large crowd last evening. The elephants are the largest ever seen in the United States. The trapeze and riding performers are first class and the trick horses and clowns very good. The circus don't pretend to be a "large consolidated show," but it did all it claimed to and satisfied the audience.
